FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Campus Philly and Temple University to host Inclusive Leadership Conference:

PHILADELPHIA, PA: On February 11, 2012, Campus Philly and Temple University will host a one-day leadership conference for all Philadelphia-area undergraduates at Temple University's Howard Gittis Student Center. The day will begin with a keynote address by nationally recognized diversity educator Marvin Worthy, followed by presentations, workshops, dialogues and panels on topics related to inclusive leadership and social change.

Participants will have the opportunity to:

- Explore their personal leadership values, the impact of identity on leadership and ways to lead inclusively.
- Connect with college students throughout the Philadelphia area to share best practices in leading with ethics and inclusiveness.
- Appreciate social justice issues relevant to our community and learn how to take action to bring about positive social change.
- Apply strategies and tools to demonstrate inclusive leadership within their own campuses, the Philadelphia community and our greater world.

The event will take place from 10am to 4:30pm and is free for Temple University students and $10 for non-Temple University students. This fee covers conference registration, breakfast and lunch. Students can register for this event by visiting campusphilly.org or contacting Dave Lanza at david@campusphilly.org

*Campus Philly is a nonprofit organization fueling economic growth by encouraging college students to study, explore live and work in the Greater Philadelphia tri-state region.
